Mokoros: As the Okavango Delta floods with the seasons our safaris take to the waters. Inspired by the people of the past who used traditional wooden mokoros as a form of transport, a modern version of this dugout canoe is a relaxing way to explore the reed-lined waterways and discover smaller creatures you wouldn't typically see from a vehicle or on foot.

Every sound is amplified, every movement is magnified and the sheer size of large animals is put into perspective when seen up close and on foot.
